

e-learning

Managers as Professional Development Champions

The influence of managers on the development of their employees is significant. In this e-learning you will learn why you as a manager are so important for the training success of your employees, why the training success of your employees is important for your own success and which type of employee needs to be challenged and supported in what way. Learn how to select the right training measures for the different types of employees, how to efficiently support further training measures and how to increase the performance of employees with little time expenditure.

Group of participants:

For managers at all levels as well as project leaders and decision-makers who want to develop their employees.

Duration: approx. 1 hour

Language:

Learning objectives

- ✓ You know why managers are so important for the training success of your employees.
- ✓ You will learn to recognise different types of performance in the team and to promote them through appropriate measures.
- ✓ You will know how to support training measures efficiently.
- ✓ You will learn how to increase the performance of your employees with little time expenditure.

Contents

Why am I important for the training success of my employees?

Why is the training success of my employees also a success for me?

How do I find out which training measures my employees need?

How can I increase the performance of my employees with a small investment of my time using pre- and post-training measures.

Information on the web
www.haufe-akademie.de/el

Let us advise you
Tel. +49 761 595339-10 • digitales-lernen@haufe-akademie.de